

SouthCoastResponse.com FAQ

Q: How do I log in?

A: Click the login button at the top of the thread and follow the instructions from there.

Q: Do I need to log in to read posts on SouthCoastResponse?

A: No

Q: Do I need to be a registered user to post on the SouthCoastResponse forums?

A: Yes.

Q: Will my username and password from the old SouthCoastResponse forums be valid in the new forums?

A: No. The new forums are on a new platform, and require a new registration. However, if you already have registered to respond to one of our new blogs, or to submit feedback at the end of a story, that user account is valid on the new forums.

Q: Why do I only see a few discussions under each town name on the SouthCoastResponse index page? Are those the only discussions available?

A: Sometimes, the board will default to a setting that shows you only unread messages. You can change this setting to show all messages, if you wish.

Q: How can I move from discussions in one town to discussions in another?

A: Clicking the SouthCoastResponse.com link at the top of the discussion will bring you back to the SouthCoastResponse main index page.
